Speakers

1. Fr Demetrios Andrews: The Creation of Sacred Space

Fr Demetrios is Proistamenos of St Augustine's, Denver. Currently studying for a Ph.D. at CU, Denver on the topic of sacred space, he is also an iconographer, as well as working as a consultant on religious architecture.

2. Fr Joseph-Marie Brown, OSB: The History and Theology of Iconography

Fr Joseph-Marie is a professed monk of the Ladyminster community, and a well-known iconographer

3. Fr Lester Michael Bundy: Rood Screens and Sacred Space: An Explanation, and Partial History

The Very Rev. Dr. Bundy served for thirty-five years as a full-time member of the faculty at Regis University. His studies involved semantics, visual and literary symbolic interpretation, and textual analysis, as well as extensive work in ecclesiastical history and theology. He has authored numerous publications in these areas. Together with his wife Kh Sue, he founded St Columba's, Lafayette, CO in 2003. An artist, Fr Les is trained as an Orthodox Christian iconographer, and his icons are in several churches and various private collections.

4: Mary Gay Coit: The Practice of Iconography

Mary Gay is a parishioner at St Mark's, Denver. A prolific iconographer, much of her work can be seen both at St Mark's and at Ladyminster, as well as being available at Lancelot Andrewes Press.

5: James Lindsay: The Council of Nicaea and the Creation of the Christian Holy Land

James Lindsay is Professor of History at CSU, Fort Collins, where he specializes in Middle Eastern history, including early Christianity. An inveterate pilgrim to the Holy Land, he is a parishioner at St James Antiochian Orthodox church in Fort Collins.
